It is awarded to non-MCA-I members who tirelessly support and commit themselves to the St. Louis production community.

Missouri Film Commission's Traci Albertson visited the set of As the World Turns as they shot scenes outside Webster University's Performing Arts Center on Monday under clear skies. Many locals were hired including extras and some crew. The scenes will air in October.

In Kansas City, Sonic Drive-In shot a spot at the KC Parks and Rec community center last week, Sprint filmed KC skylines and the Missouri River for a corporate image video this week and Partnership for Children will be shooting a PSA at KC's Take 2 production company next week.

KC suburbs saw Bark Productions shooting a Wal-Mart commercial in Liberty last weekend and a Burbank, Calif. production company just began four weeks of a corporate video production at the Claycomo Ford plant yesterday. Many local crew members are being enlisted for the lengthy shoot.

INDUSTRY NEWS

Assembly Bill 2747 passed the California State Assembly this week by a wide, bipartisan vote. AB 2747 passed the full Assembly with only one dissenting vote, and will now move to the California State Senate. AB 2747 is designed to level the playing field, securing that film and television production stay within the state. Wage-based tax incentives allow California to remain competitive when vying with other states and countries for production. AB 2747 is modeled after current federal legislation – S. 1278 and HR 3131. It provides a 15 percent production tax credit on the first $250,000 of qualifying wages for all films and television programming budgeted between $200,000 and $10 million. If passed by the Senate and signed by California Governor Gray Davis, it is scheduled to take effect on January 1, 2004.
